LA-Pathways, City of LA, CA - Front End Developer
Aug 2018 – Present

LA Pathways is a platform for providing resources to aspiring entrepreneurs and business owners in the City of LA. Users are taken through an assessment, which is then taken through an algorithm that produces a pathway for the users. Implemented a reusable component business form using React for the client side, Node/Express for the middle tier, and SQL for the backend. Successfully created a dynamic home page dashboard for entrepreneurs, mentors/coaches, and administrators using Redux to identify which dashboard to load depending on user type. Implemented a reusable component to schedule appointments using Bootstrap, React Select, and Flatpickr modules which makes three AJAX calls. Created a robust address form using Spread Notation which can add and delete multiple forms. Eventbrite details page using Axios and Advance Rest Client to make an AJAX call and display the details. Used GIT to commit work and make pull request on TFS when finished with my card. Participated in scrum ceremonies. Worked in Trello to access backlog and user stories.
